

Dumplings with Royal Baking Powder

No dessert is more delicious, wholesome and appetizing than a well-made dumpling, filled with the fruit of the season. By the use of the Royal Baking Powder the crust is always rendered light, flaky, tender and digestible. Dumplings made with it, baked or boiled, will be dainty and wholesome, and may be eaten steaming hot with perfect impunity.

RECIPE.—One quart of flour; thoroughly mix with it three teaspoons of Royal Baking Powder and a small teaspoon of salt; rub in a piece of butter or lard the size of an egg, and then add one large potato, grated in the flour; after the butter is well mixed, stir in milk and knead to the consistency of soft biscuit dough; break off pieces of dough large enough to close over four quarters of an apple (or other fruit as desired) without rolling, and lay in an earthen dish (or steamer) and steam until the fruit is tender. Bake if preferred.

In all receipts calling for cream of tartar and soda, substitute Royal Baking Powder. Less trouble, never fails, makes more appetizing and wholesome food and is more economical. Royal Baking Powder is specially made for use in the preparation of the finest and most delicate cookery.

A Great Catholic Event

Dedication of the University Building in Washington.

PART OF THE PROGRAM OMITTED.

Rain Greatly Interferes With the Exercises, Although the Indoors Part Was Carried Out According to Previous Arrangements—Many Prominent People Present.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The Catholic university was dedicated yesterday with all the pomp and splendor befitting the occasion. Much of the program had, however, to be omitted, because of the weather, and only that part that was designed to occur indoors was carried out.

THE NEW UNIVERSITY BUILDING.

The day was damp and raining, just such a day when on May 22, 1888, the corner-stone of the university was laid by Cardinal Gibbons, in the presence of a vast audience of prelates and laymen. Yesterday the highest prelates of the Catholic church on the western hemisphere, and the most distinguished laymen in its fold gathered at the university to grace the occasion by their presence.

All during the morning the electric cars and Baltimore and Ohio trains brought thousands to the university. At 11 o'clock Cardinal Gibbons and the Catholic prelates and delegates from the Catholic convention at Baltimore arrived. The religious ceremonies began at half-past 11 o'clock in the chapel with the chanting of the hymn to the Holy Ghost—Veni Creator Spiritus—by 350 students of St. Mary's seminary and St. Charles college. The chapel was a small room not sufficient to hold one hundredth part of those who sought admission.

On either side of the altar were thrones, the right occupied by His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons, and the left by His Eminence Cardinal Taschereau, of Quebec. After the hymn to the Holy Ghost had been chanted, Cardinal Gibbons, in the full robes of his exalted office, proceeded from the chapel and going to the outer door of the university, with the driving rain pouring down, formally blessed the university.

It had been designed to have had an imposing procession around the university. After the dedication, the cardinal resumed his position at the right of the altar and the seminarians then chanted the Miserere. Pontifical mass of the Holy Ghost was then commenced, the Most Rev. Mgr. Satolli, archbishop of Lepanto, being celebrant; Rev. Joseph C. Byrne, secretary of the archdiocese of St. Paul, sub-deacon; Rev. James F. McCallan, master of ceremonies, and Rev. Joseph F. Nolan, assistant master of ceremonies.

The assistants to the celebrant of the mass were Rev. Messrs. O'Brien, Houck and Hallessey. The choir was under the direction of Rev. Joseph Graff, choir-master of the university. The Marine band under Professor Sousa was present, and beginning in the early morning at frequent intervals, except during the religious ceremonies, rendered Grand March Du Sacre, by Meyerbeer; A Sunday in Norfolk Norway, by Walkmar; Power and Love from the Redemption, by Gounod, and other pieces.

Bishop Gilmour, of Cleveland, then preached an eloquent sermon to a congregation composed of distinguished church dignitaries from home and abroad.

The arrival of the president was about given up, when at about 4:15, the sun having come out to brighten up the day and the rain having ceased, President Harrison drove up to the door, and alighting, was hailed by a series of cheers, while the marine band played "Hail to the Chief." His entrance in the hallway and to the banquet hall, where he was at once shown, was accompanied by a series of enthusiastic cheering.

A like reception was given Vice President Morton, Secretaries Noble and Rusk and other officials. When the president and Mr. Morton in leaving the building, stepped to the lecture room, where the gathering to witness the inaugural ceremonies had assembled, they were cheered time and again, as they smilingly recognized the compliment; but the exhibition of popularity of the officials reached its height when Secretary Blaine appeared. The applause then became deafening.

In the banquet hall, responding to the toast "Our Country and Her President," Secretary Blaine said: "I come to represent the United States, not in any political sense, much less in any partisan sense, nor in connection with any church or sect, but to speak for all and the great freedom which we enjoy. I have made the statement in Protestant assemblies, and I am glad to make it in a Catholic one." He then referred to the administration of President Harrison as one which had produced good results, and continuing, said: "I am glad of every college that is endowed, no matter who endows it. Every institution of learning increases the country's culture, and this, I believe, will build up the government of this great country of ours, under which all are free and equal."

Mr. Blaine was cheered repeatedly during his remarks, and the applause at its close lasted some minutes. The toast "Our Sister Universities," was responded to by Cardinal Taschereau. He spoke of the future of Catholic universities, and said that imagination had no bounds to picture its future, judging by what he had seen.

Bishop Keane responded to the toast "The President of the United States," to which the president replied:

"I am thankful for the reception you have given me. I have avoided speech making heretofore on occasions of this kind. It has been my fortune often to have that covenant broken by being compelled to make a speech. I am sure you will permit me to exact a compliance with that covenant and again to simply thank you for your kindly greeting."

Just as the president concluded, Vice President Morton and his wife entered the hall. They were greeted with cheers and escorted to seats at the cardinals' table. Mrs. Morton taking Bishop Keane's seat and her husband was seated on her left.

Cardinal Gibbons responded to the toast "The Hierarchy of the United States." He thanked the president and the other officials of the government for their presence, and referred to the distinguished gathering being of more than ordinary local significance. "In this university," he said, "your children will be educated to strengthen the country by their number, enlighten it by their wisdom, if necessary defend it with their valor."

Archbishop Ryan also made a humorous speech in reference to some toast and after John Boyle O'Reilly had responded "to The Press," the exercises were closed with grace by the cardinal.

A number of congratulatory cablegrams and telegrams were received during the day from all parts of the world. The students of the American college at Rome sent congratulations. Miss Lena Caldwell cabled from Paris, "Heartiest congratulations and sincerest wishes for success of great work." Miss Mary Gwendolen Caldwell cabled from Paris, "Deeply regret not to be with you. My heart shall always be in the university."

Princess Borghese sent from Rome the following: "A thousand good wishes for the great work dedicated to-day."

The Cronin Case Rests.

An Adjournment Taken Until Saturday.

THE STATE'S EVIDENCE ALL IN.

Present Prospects of a Verdict of Guilty. All of the Accused Likely to Be Convicted With the Exception of Beggs—It is Now Thought That the Case Will Be Given to the Jury in About Three Weeks.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Three weeks from to-day the fate of the five men now on trial for the murder of Dr. Cronin will be in the hands of the jury. The evidence for the state is practically closed; the defense will not occupy more than two weeks; about three days will be devoted to sur-rebuttal testimony, and the speeches on both sides will occupy about the same length of time.

As the case now stands the prospects are exceedingly dark for ex-Detective Coughlin, O'Sullivan, the ice man; Martin Burke and little Kunze, the German, although the evidence against the latter is slight as compared with the other three. Lawyer John F. Beggs, the senior guardian of Camp 20, will, according to present indications, be acquitted, no evidence connecting him with the tragedy having been adduced.

Meanwhile the friends of the murdered man, although chagrined because the fountainheads of the conspiracy have not been reached, are secretly working with might and main to accomplish that result. They have only two resources to fall back upon—one a confession from some one of the prisoners now on trial, or two, the results of investigations now going on in different quarters. The master hand or hands that inspired the manufacture of the bogus interviews with Dr. Cronin in Toronto at the very time that his remains were decomposing in the Lakeview sewer; that provided the funds for the fight against the extradition of Martin Burke, a penniless Irish laborer; that sent to Winnipeg the dispatch warning that individual to beware of the Chicago police officials who were escorting him back to this city, remain to be revealed.

The weekly meetings of anti-Cronin-ites that are being held at the Grand Pacific ostensibly to raise money for the defense, are known to be a blind, and it is equally well known that the sum of $25,000 was placed at the disposal of certain counsel for the defense a week before the men were brought to trial. If any further proof of the existence of a fountain head were necessary it is to be found in the attempt to bribe the special veniremen while the empanelling of the jury was in progress, and the fact that money in amounts of from $1,000 to $5,000 was forthcoming in order to accomplish the desired result. It is to get at the bottom of the conspiracy that the friends of Dr. Cronin are now directing themselves.

At the opening of the Cronin trial Judge McConnell announced his decision on the question of going into the past history of the Clan-na-Gael. In his ruling he held in substance that the decision of this question would involve the opening of the whole matter as to whether or not Dr. Cronin was really guilty of treason in 1885, and the whole matter in which Coughlin was the committeeman sitting in judgment on Dr. Cronin. The court did not think the evidence competent as it would involve the trying of other issues. This ruling excludes the testimony of John Devoy, Dr. McCahey and others who were to testify to the ancient feud between the two factions of the Clan-na-Gael.

This decision, of course, rendered any further attempt to examine Officer Brown futile, and Officer McKinnon, of Winnipeg, was recalled. He testified that Burke told him he had assumed the name of J. W. Cooper because two men were watching him. Under cross-examination by Mr. Forrest, McKinnon explained that in the court at Winnipeg he did not testify that Burke said his name was Cooper because he was not asked the question. He was asked certain questions there and answered them. Here he was told to tell his story.

The remaining evidence of the morning session was of an uninteresting character. H. H. Jansen described the surroundings of the Carlson cottage to show that it was a lonely place. Sergeant Frankfeld, of the United States signal service, told about the state of the weather on the night of May 4, and a number of time bills used by W. J. Frolich, the painter, for whom Kunze, under the name of Kaigel, worked in April, were put in evidence.

At the afternoon session Judge Longenecker announced that in view of the decision ruling out the testimony of Daniel Brown the state thought it would be useless and a waste of time to go over any more of the ground mentioned in the opening address. The purpose of the testimony to be given by Daniel Brown was to prove a motive. Inasmuch, however, as the state believed a motive had been proven already, the state would not resist the court's decision. There was but one more witness to be called, a Mr. Clancy, who would arrive in the city to-morrow. Clancy, the state's attorney said, would simply testify to a conversation had with O'Sullivan. With the exception of Clancy, the state's case was closed.

Mr. Forrest asked that the defense be given until Monday morning for a proper preparation of its case. If necessary he said, he would make an affidavit that it was absolutely impossible for him to proceed, unless he could get rest. He had been working every night until 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning for two weeks. The court was disposed to give Mr. Forrest until Saturday morning, saying that he considered two days and a half considerable indulgence. After a good deal of argument, Judge McConnell cut off Forrest by announcing decisively that the court would adjourn until 10 o'clock Saturday morning, when the state would conclude its evidence.

It was reported to the police that a pocketbook containing a railroad pass, and a note signed "P. H. Cronin" had been found by a man in Lakeview. The police located the man, but he is said to have refused to give up his find. The police have not yet arrested him.

A curious discovery has been made in the Carlson cottage, where the late Dr. Cronin was done to death. The paper frieze running around the top of the walls of the room in which the deed was committed is ornamented with repetitions of a sentence in Arabic text, similar to one seen in many places in the Alhambra. Translated it reads: "God alone is conqueror."

HAS MADE NO CONFESSION.

Kunze Claims He Knows Nothing About the Murder.

Kunze, the Cronin suspect, is annoyed by the statements of local papers that he has confessed. Tuesday he addressed a letter to a local German paper giving what, he says, is all he knows about the Cronin case. The letter says:

My confession—It surprised me very much when I read in the papers to-day that I was to go on the stand as a witness for the state's attorney. What have I to tell the state's attorney? I could tell him nothing unless I told him a fairy tale, whereby innocent persons would suffer. If I had taken Dan Coughlin to the (Carlson) cottage, it would have been told long ago. I would have told it when they kept me in the police station for ten days. I never used Dan Coughlin's buggy, and cannot, therefore, give false testimony, although Mr. Longenecker promised me my liberty if I would say so. Oh, how gladly would I take my liberty if I knew something of the story, and could say so to the state's attorney. But I will not swear falsely for any money in the world. Not even if my life is in peril could I see any innocent person suffer on account of me. That I ran around with Dan Coughlin until April 10, 1889, is true, and that I bore a false name on the South Side is also true, but all this I have already confessed to the state's attorney.

That the others had something to do with this (Cronin) matter, I now believe myself, if, for no other reason, than that because of their behavior in jail. I am sure that Burke is one of the miscreants. I saw and felt it yesterday. When the clothes of Dr. Cronin were brought into the court room he trembled violently, which is proof of his guilt. The others were as white as snow. I thank God that I have a clear conscience, have nobody to fear and nothing to make me tremble. So far as my false name is concerned, that will be cleared up by the Schufeldt distillery matter, because I was shadowed at that time and they wanted to take important papers from me. This is my confession which I have to make to Mr. Longenecker. In the honest hope that my innocence and the truth will soon be known, I remain yours sincerely, JOHN P. KUNZE.

MILL DAM BREAKS.

Two Lives Lost and Thousands of Dollars Worth of Property Destroyed.

ALTON, Ont., Nov. 14.—A terrible calamity occurred here, about 3:30 yesterday morning, the breaking of the mill dam at McClellan's flouring mill, one mile west of the village. Two lives were lost, six mill dams and four bridges carried away, and many houses and buildings wrecked, and thousands of dollars worth of property destroyed. The inhabitants of the village were awakened by the water rushing in torrents down the streets. They speedily sought places of safety, and many narrowly escaped with their lives. One old couple, named Harris, were carried away and drowned.

The village presents a wrecked appearance, the streets having been washed into holes, sidewalks torn up, and debris of all sorts piled up in the roadway. Among the buildings destroyed were Dicks' stove foundry, Algie's woolen mills and many dwelling houses. The dams at Meek's and McKinnon's mills and at Algie's and Ward's mills were carried away. The railway bridge of the Canadian Pacific division was wrecked. The total loss has not yet been estimated but will reach away up in the thousands.

THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

Title of the Order Changed—Other Proceedings of the Convention.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 14.—At yesterday's session of the Knights of Labor convention the words "of America" were dropped, making the title of the order simply the Knights of Labor. This was done at the request of Assembly No. 208, of Birmingham, England. The addresses of Messrs. Powderly and Hayes were submitted.

The afternoon session was devoted to the trial of Horner McGaw, of Pittsburgh, who was prosecuted by James Campbell, president of the Window Glass Workers' association. The formal charges against McGaw were vilification and slander of officers and an attempt to disrupt the order. McGaw is editor of a trade paper in Pittsburgh and made himself obnoxious to Campbell by charging him with a violation of the alien contract labor law.

Last night a public meeting was held at the court house. Jake Smith delivered the address of welcome for Georgia and Mayor Glenn for Atlanta. General Master Powderly presided.

Coal Miners' Strike Threatened.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14.—At a conference of river coal operators and miners, Tuesday, the demand of the latter for an advance of one half cent per bushel in the price of mining was refused. The operators claim that the condition of the coal trade at Cincinnati and other down river points would not justify the increase. A strike of 5,000 miners may follow.

THURSDAY, NOV. 14, 1889.

The public debt of the United States, less cash in the treasury, is only one billion, fifty million, thirty-four thousand, six hundred and three dollars.

Now that General Hewitt has retired from the State Auditor's office, what will become of his libel suits against the Covington Commonwealth and Owensboro Inquirer?

The parties who hung a Rebel flag to the breeze down at Augusta the other night ought to know that the day is past for such nonsense. It was a very foolish piece of business to engage in.

There are enough millionaires already holding down seats in the U. S. Senate, and the Ohio Legislature ought to tell Mr. Calvin S. Brice so right at the start. If the Democratic Legislators of the Buckeye State want to do something to strengthen their party let them elect Neal Senator.

It will not surprise us to see Governor-elect Leon Abbott, of New Jersey, come to the front as a prominent Democratic candidate for President in 1892. His majority at the late election reached over 14,000, a wonderful increase over previous figures in that State. 'Rah for Abbott! He's a man of the people and for the people.

Should the terrible tragedy enacted at Lexington so recently, and which caused the untimely death of two eminent Kentuckians, cause an awakening on the subject of the offense of habitually carrying concealed deadly weapons, so prevalent in our sister State, Colonel Swope and Colonel Goodloe will not have died in vain.—Cincinnati Post.

Undoubtedly Kentucky killings would be fewer if the pernicious habit of carrying concealed weapons was broken up. The law should be rigidly enforced. The pistol and knife should not fill so many pockets in Kentucky, to be used upon the slightest provocation.

Let's Have a Change.

SHERBURNE, KY., November 13, 1889.
Gentlemen: My paper has been coming very irregularly for past two weeks. So far this week I have not received any copy. Hope you can find where the fault is, as we miss the DAILY BULLETIN greatly when it fails to get in on time. Yours truly,

CHAS. W. AITKIN.

The EVENING BULLETIN is mailed promptly before 6 o'clock every day of publication. After they are deposited in the postoffice they are beyond our control. The many complaints about the mail service in this section certainly deserve investigation, and the Government authorities should take hold of the matter. People are losing all confidence in "Uncle Sam" as a mail-carrier. The service never was in a worse condition. The BULLETIN can not say who are at fault, but the Government ought to find them out and then kick them out and make room for somebody who will do their duty.

It is Courage That Wins.

"In the Ohio campaign the Hon. James E. Campbell did not shrink from the maintenance of the principles of the platform upon which he was nominated, which declared in unmistakable terms for tariff reform," says the Courier-Journal. "He boldly defended the Mills bill which put wool on the free list, thus defying Columbus Delano and the wool growers' association on their chosen ground. He showed the farmers of Ohio that cheap woollens would save them more money than the tariff on wool could possibly put into their pockets. The result was that Campbell won. For years before, with a halting, temporizing policy, the Democrats were snowed under.

"In Iowa, where the Republicans have had undisputed sway for more than thirty years, the Hon. Horace Boies, the Democratic nominee for Governor, took a decided stand for tariff reform, and told his audiences how greatly their prosperity was retarded by the operation of our unequal laws. He had the courage of his convictions, and he pleaded manfully for a policy calculated to give the Iowans a better chance in the struggle for prosperity. The event justified the confidence which he reposed in the good sense of the people. For the first time in a generation, Iowa has elected a Democratic Governor."

Thanksgiving Day.

Governor Buckner has issued the following Thanksgiving proclamation:

"Thanksgiving Proclamation: Commonwealth of Kentucky, Executive Department.—In accordance with established custom, I hereby set apart the 28th day of November instant, as a day of thanksgiving, to be observed by the citizens of this Commonwealth as each may deem best, as an evidence of their appreciation of the blessings conferred by a benign providence. In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the Commonwealth to be affixed. Done at Frankfort, the 11th day of November, in the year of our Lord 1889, and in the ninety-eighth of the Commonwealth."

FOUR INJURED

The Wreck on the C. & O. Much Worse Than First Reported.

The wreck on the C. & O. yesterday morning was much worse than at first reported. The train that met with the accident was not the west bound fast express, but the Iron-ton accommodation.

The train was on its down trip. Near "Stony Point," a mile or so east of Higinson station, there is a bad piece of track that has given the company trouble ever since the completion of the road. The road-bed is close to the river bank and slips or settles down every now and then.

The westbound express yesterday passed the point safely. When the accommodation struck the place the track suddenly gave way, throwing the engine into the bank above, and ditching and badly wrecking the baggage and express car. Luckily the rest of the train kept the track and none of the passengers were seriously injured. All received a general shaking up, and a few got some scratches and bruises.

The engineer, fireman, baggage-master and express-messenger were not so fortunate, however. The engine was almost buried in the bank and was badly wrecked. The escaping steam badly scalded the engineer and fireman before they could be gotten out. Their names are C. W. Hall and C. A. Duncan.

At the time the accident happened, express messenger S. D. Hall and baggage master W. H. Weedon were standing at the stove in the rear end of their car. They landed in the front end of the car, having been thrown over parcels of baggage and express matter. Mr. Weedon escaped with a sprained arm and a few scratches. Mr. Hall received painful injuries about the head, face and arms, one ear being split open. He is at the Central Hotel, this city, and will be disabled from duty for several days.

Rev. Cleon Keys, of Lewisburg, was one of the passengers. He had gone to the water-cooler for a drink and had just turned around to return to his seat when the accident hurled him through the door of the coach, most of the door going with him. He was not hurt.

The track was cleared of the wreck last evening by 8 o'clock, and all trains are on time once more.

Railway News.

The C. & O. is erecting seven more houses at Russell.

The L. & N.'s earnings during the fourth week in October were $569,570, or an increase of $127,221 over the corresponding week of last year. The increase for the entire month over October, 1888, was $323,251.

Contracts have been let for the C. & O.'s new Union depot at Louisville. It is estimated the building will cost fully $500,000.

Says the Commercial-Gazette: "No young passenger man in the country of his age has a finer grasp of his duties than General Passenger Agent H. W. Fuller, of the C. & O., or performs them with more loyalty and intelligence. His ability is widely recognized, and it is a fact which his friends will not be surprised to hear that he had recently an offer from an Eastern corporation so flattering as to be dazzling. It might have blinded a less steady head to the advantages of present surroundings. If Mr. Fuller ever wavered, however, for a moment, he did so no longer after an interview with his chief, who first heard of the offer from those making it. And President Ingalls promised nothing. It is said that he simply intimated that the C. & O. could not spare Mr. Fuller to those who wanted him, and that H. W. Fuller couldn't afford to leave the C. & O. That settled it with Mr. Fuller, and Cincinnatians will be glad of it."

A Noted Robber Soon to be Free.

A special says the time of Conrad Seithers, sentenced to the penitentiary for robbing the Citizens' Bank of Paris, of $20,000, will expire on the 28th of this month, and he will be released. He is a dangerous bank robber, and his movements should be watched when he is turned loose. At the time the Citizens' Bank was robbed $10,000 in Cincinnati Southern Railroad bonds and $9,500 in Carlisle, Ky., bonds, belonging to the bank, were taken. Only one of the bonds was ever recovered. It was taken to a bank in Cincinnati to be cashed, and while the Cashier was examining it, the man who brought it in slipped out and never returned. The Southern bonds are as follows: 1936, 1937, 1938, 1939, 1940, 1685, 1550, 4029, 239 and 240.

THE COLLECTORSHIP.

The Scramble Already, Commenced for the Revenue Office; Promises to Be Lively.

Colonel Goodloe's body was not yet in the grave before the scramble for the Collectorship was commenced. It is said "applications for possession of the dead man's office shoes" were made at Washington City the night after the lamented man breathed his last. Monday afternoon, just about one day after the late Collector expired, the Mason County Republican convention adopted resolutions recommending one of their number—Captain Hutchins—"to the appointive power" as their choice to fill the vacancy.

The Lexington correspondent of the Enquirer says: "Rumor and speculation are free in the mention of names of men whose successors to Colonel Goodloe would be most appropriate, and who, it may be said, are not applicants. These are Mr. E. R. Blaine, the temporary Collector; Major H. C. McDowell or his son and son-in-law of Colonel Goodloe, Thos. McDowell, and R. P. Stoll. The latter is President of the City National Bank, one of Colonel Goodloe's bondsmen, one time Collector himself and a political and personal friend of the deceased."

Judge W. H. Sneed, of Frankfort, is also mentioned, and Sam Pinkerton of Woodford County, it is said, is already in Washington City, to make a fight for the office. Everything points to a lively contest. Many Maysvillians think that Mr. E. R. Blaine stands a better show for the place than any of the others who have been mentioned.

A Lexington special in to-day's Enquirer adds fresh interest to the fight. It says: "A great surprise is in store for the gentlemen who are applicants for the position of Collector of Internal Revenue for the Seventh District, vice Colonel Goodloe, deceased."

"The widow, Mrs. Mary Goodloe, is herself an applicant, and has asked President Harrison for the place. This is a political bombshell, sure enough. As to the qualifications of the lady there can be no question, for she is one of the most capable women in business affairs on the continent."

"As between her and the Colonel, her husband, she was best man. He never made any money after he married her until he received the appointment as Collector. His Belgian Mission was a dead expense to him, and the little business woman at his side made him give it up and come home and husband their resources in behalf of their growing family. Mrs. Goodloe comes of people who are business 'up to the handle.' No one doubts that she would conduct the affairs of the office with as much precision as any man that could be appointed."

A SPECIAL from Paris says the Kentucky Classical and Business College at North Middletown was burned Tuesday night. All the furniture including eight pianos was lost. The young ladies of the college barely escaped with their lives. Value of building, $40,000; insured for $7,500. It was the property of Mr. E. C. Long.

SPEAKING of "Fabio Romani," the Ohio State Journal, of Columbus, says: "Mr. Benedict does himself and the author credit in every characterization, acting the play from start to finish in a conscientious manner that wins the audience. His rapid changes are a feature, as is also his prompt merging of the characters, and the manner in which he is the four different personages conceived. Miss Francis Field does some remarkably clever acting, and was a favorite." This new play will be produced at the opera house here next Monday night. Reserved seat tickets on sale at Taylor's.

REFERRING to the marriage of Mr. Wm. B. Thomas, of this city, and Miss Mary F. Cheek, a special from Danville says: "The ceremony was performed by the bride's brother, the Rev. F. J. Cheek, of Paris. Members of the two families only were present. They were the recipients of many handsome presents and congratulatory telegrams from friends at a distance." The Danville Advocate says the wedding is "the happy consummation of an engagement of long standing. Mr. Thomas and the young lady whom he has chosen to be a life partner are well known, both being natives of Danville, and need no eulogy from us. They come from two old and well-established families and stand high in the community."

League and Association

Important Base Ball Meetings in New York.

THE ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

American Association in a Deadlock Over the Office of President—One Hundred and Twenty-Three Ballots Taken—The Brotherhood Fight Assuming a Serious Question—Other Base Ball News.

New York, Nov. 14.—The fight of the base ball men over the Brotherhood question has assumed a most interesting aspect. No one thought a week ago that the Association would interfere; but yesterday at the annual meeting of the League and the Association at the Fifth Avenue hotel, there was a lively sort of a time over the question. Brooklyn and Cincinnati are anxious to go into the League. They only wait for an invitation from that body. If these two clubs desert the Association it is said that St. Louis, Louisville, Columbus, Kansas City and the Athletics will combine with the Brotherhood to fight the League.

The board of directors of the National League met at 11 o'clock. The session lasted a little over an hour. The report of the treasurer was received and accepted, and Nick Young re-elected secretary.

The delegates to the annual meeting of the National League did not assemble until 1 o'clock. The annual meeting of the American Association was begun shortly after 11 o'clock.

The delegates of the American Association proceeded to the election of President T. T. Kraut, of Kansas City club and Zach Phelps, of the Louisville, were nominated. It resulted in a deadlock, there being four clubs in favor of each of the candidates. A recess was taken at 1 o'clock.

At 1:45 the convention was again called to order and the balloting was continued. At 3 p. m., some of the Association men in the hotel corridors, who were acquainted with the inside work of the meeting, stated that it was their opinion that the convention would adjourn for the day without electing a president.

Meanwhile the meeting of the National League was going on in another part of the building. Shortly after 3 o'clock the League convention took a recess for an hour. The session was spent in considering the revision of the constitution. Nothing else was done.

Simultaneous with the appearance of the League men, Byrne, of Brooklyn, burst in view, followed by Barnie, of Baltimore; Stern, of Cincinnati; and Spees, of Kansas City. This was the entire side of the Krauthoff part of the Association fight for president, and it was thought at once that the matter had been settled. It was not so, however. Fifteen more ballots had been taken since recess with no decision.

The Byrne faction left the meeting on the plea that they wanted to confer, but the true intention of the men when it became known caused considerable laughter. Byrne, Barnie, Stern and Spees, when they retired, knew that they left the meeting without a quorum, and that in their absence nothing could be done. At 3:45 the supporters of Krauthoff were still in the hotel corridors, while the Phelps party sat in the parlor awaiting their return. They soon afterward returned.

The deadlock in the Association over the choice of a president continued until nearly 8 p. m., when, after having taken 123 ballots without reaching a result, an adjournment was taken.

At the League meeting the reports of the board of directors and the playing rules committee were received and accepted.

Mr. A. G. Spalding, chairman of the special committee appointed last spring to consider grievances of League players, then submitted the report of that committee. The report quotes the correspondence had between the Brotherhood officials and the League concerning the alleged violation by the latter of the agreement entered into with the Brotherhood in reference to the non-reduction of "reserved" players. The report states that the only instance cited by the representatives of the Brotherhood as being a violation of agreement was that of Sutcliffe, of the Cleveland club, had received $2,000 salary from the Detroit club in 1888 and had signed with the Cleveland club for 1889 at the classification figure of $1,750.

Mr. Spalding suggested to the president of the Brotherhood that a conference upon this case be postponed until the annual meeting as, in his opinion, the claims of the Brotherhood were not of sufficient urgency, and that no material interest would suffer in postponing the conference. A letter was afterward sent to President Ward, of the Brotherhood, notifying him that the League had decided to postpone the matter until fall.
To this letter no reply was received.
On Sept. 27 another letter was sent to Mr. Ward requesting him to make a date and place for a conference upon the subject. Mr. Ward replied to the effect that the committee appointed by the Brotherhood had been discharged, and that the communication would be referred to the entire Brotherhood. No further communication from the Brotherhood had been received.

This report was accepted and the action of the committee endorsed by the convention. The convention then agreed that, although the Brotherhood had refused further conference with the League committee, and therefore had not substantiated by proof the charges made against the Cleveland club in the Sutcliffe case, yet it would itself investigate the matter. After the Cleveland delegates had made a statement concerning Sutcliffe's contract, the convention adopted the following:

WHEREAS, It has been brought to the notice of this League that E. E. Sutcliffe, a player of the Cleveland club, claims that he is entitled to payment by that club to him of the sum of $250, as being the amount due him for the season of 1889, less than he received in the Detroit club for the season of 1888, and

WHEREAS, Such claim is made pursuant to the understanding had with the committee of the Brotherhood of players, whereby a player consented to serve his club for the season next ensuing the expiration of his contract, provided he should suffer no reduction in salary, and

WHEREAS, Such was the spirit of the understanding with the Brotherhood committee, and it was so expressed in the form of a contract then agreed upon, therefore,

RESOLVED, That, although as a matter of fact Sutcliffe did not sign a contract containing a perpetuating clause for the season of 1888, he having signed a contract with the Detroit club under date of Oct. 24, 1887, (prior to the agreement with the Brotherhood) and although there is some doubt as to whether Sutcliffe did or did not voluntarily consent to play with the Cleveland club for a less amount than was named in his contract with the Detroit club the year preceding, it was the plain intentions of both parties at the time the Brotherhood contract was agreed upon, that the players, when thereafter reserved for an ensuing season, should receive not less than the same salary specified in the contract for the current season. As this is the only case that has been brought to the notice of the League involving a claim of the character indicated, it is hereby ordered that the secretary of the League pay to the said E.
E. Sutcliffe the sum of $250, being the difference between the amount paid him for his services with the Detroit club for the season of 1888 and the amount paid by the Cleveland club for the season of 1889.

The remainder of the night's session was devoted to the revision of the constitution. The question of prohibiting clubs from playing two games in one afternoon for a single admission charge, it is understood, led to much debate and a decision was not reached.

President Byrne last night was in close consultation with several of the League magnates in one of the parlors of the hotel. The result of the conference is not known, but it is believed to have some bearing on the admission into the League of the Brooklyn and Cincinnati clubs.

During the afternoon Capt. Anson told a reporter that two of the Brother-hood's strongest supporters had signed League contracts, and that a dozen more would also sign within a few days.
Then, said Anson, the League will publish the full list of names and it will cripple the Brotherhood.

Later John Ward arrived at the hotel.
He at once denied the statement that any of the Brotherhood had deserted.

John Ward said that the Brotherhood had purchased the grounds for the new Brooklyn club. They are situated on the corner of Fulton street and Manhattan beach crossing in that city. It is stated that the purchase price is $100,000. The grounds are 450 by 860 feet and are believed to be owned by Austin Corbin, who it is said, is the backer of the Brooklyn Brotherhood club.

ANOTHER WOMAN'S SOCIETY.

Result of the Division in the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—The withdrawal of the Iowa delegation and the creation of a division in Women's Christian Temperance union ranks on the political question has resulted in another woman's society not yet named, and the majority of the Iowa delegation, together with representatives from several other states.

They met and held a meeting yesterday in the room of the Iowa state headquarters, and after discussing the situation, selected a provisional committee to prepare an address to the women of the country preliminary to a call for a convention to organize the proposed society.

Several of the members of the committee left yesterday and further action could not be taken immediately. The committee will be called together during the winter to prepare the address. Five hundred dollars was collected to defray the expenses of the work, and The Iowa Messenger was selected as the official organ of the committee.

In another room of the Palmer house the members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union executive committee continued the work of the convention in committee work. The action of the body did not annoy them. Miss Willard, residing over the meetings with apparent equanimity.
